Intrinsic Research Systems Inc. Announces a Major Product Upgrade

Version 5.0 Now Available

August 15, 2013, New York, NY – Intrinsic Research Systems, Inc., a Mergent company, announced today the release of its latest major product upgrade, Version 5.0, which brings delayed quotes and additional news services to the equity and portfolio analysis platform.

Intrinsic users can benefit from delayed quotes in all of the system's price and valuation graphics as well as within the Quotes/News/Events module which now offers customizable portfolio & sector watch displays featuring price quote data intermingled with any of over 1,300 available Intrinsic fundamental data elements. Delayed quotes and additional news feeds round out the monitoring of portfolio holdings supplementing the already existing portfolio news and calendar functions available in the system. Version 5.0 further simplifies the monitoring function with a new Earnings Monitor display which streamlines the tracking of upcoming earnings, earnings surprise and earnings revision across portfolios, sectors and market indexes.

Jeff McMains, CFA and co-founder of Intrinsic Research Systems, elaborates, "We are excited to expand the portfolio monitoring functions available to our customers through the addition of our new quote, news and earnings monitor tools. These fully integrated enhancements, along with our previously announced streaming real-time solutions made available through our partnership with QuoteMedia, round out the Intrinsic platform allowing us to offer asset managers analytics, quotes, news and client reporting tools within a single package."

Additional enhancements highlighting Version 5.0 include an Enterprise Value decomposition table, Customizable PE Bands on normalized earnings, Business Geographic Segment Analysis, ValuCheck pop-up views on all Intrinsic valuation charts and new capabilities in the area of Custom Calculated Series creation. Finally, Intrinsic Research Version 5.0 also enhances the portfolio manager's client reporting duties through a variety of new presentation quality portfolio holdings and characteristics report options. Intrinsic's seamless link to client accounting systems has also been upgraded with new user account control features.
